Dues Payment Forgiveness Provisions

Background

There are two MCEA policies that reduce MCEA dues.

First, on January 7, 1987, the MCEA Representative Assembly, duly adopted New Article II, Section 2 c of the bylaws, which forgives payment of dues under certain circumstances:

The dues for a person joining as an active member shall be the amount of annual dues which is commensurate with the remaining portion of the membership year. No individual may take advantage of this reduced dues more than once.¹

Second, during membership drives, MCEA has traditionally offered to forgive all dues for the current year if a prospective member executes a written membership pledge for the following year.

Recently, there has been some confusion about to whom these two forgiveness options apply, and how they interrelate. The purpose of this Board of Directors interpretation is to clarify MCEA policy on these matters.

To Whom Do The Forgiveness Options Apply?

There are three groups of non-MCEA-members within the MCEA bargaining unit to which the forgiveness options potentially apply:

¹ Article 22 of the collective bargaining agreement governs the financial obligations of unit members to MCEA. These obligations are defined in Article 22, the relevant portion of which reads as follows:

"G. Representation Fee

All unit members hired after August 31, 1984, shall be required to join the Association or to pay a representation fee. All unit members who are members of the MCEA as of September 10, 1984, shall continue their membership in MCEA or pay a representation fee to MCEA...."

1. Unit members who were not MCEA members on or before September 10, 1984, and who, in conformity with their rights under Article 22 of the collective bargaining agreement, have chosen neither to become MCEA members nor to pay a representation fee;
2. Unit members hired after August 31, 1984, who, in conformity with their rights under Article 28 of the collective bargaining agreement, have previously chosen to pay a representation fee rather than become MCEA members;
3. Unit members hired after August 31, 1984, who, in defiance of their duties under Article 28 of the collective bargaining agreement, have refused either to become MCEA members or pay a representation fee.

For sound reasons, the forgiveness options apply only to unit members who have abided by their contractual obligations to MCEA. Accordingly, they apply to unit members in groups 1 and 2, but not unit members in group 3.

Unit members in group 1 are under no compulsion, whatever, to pay dues or a representation fee. Unit members in group 2 pay less if they choose the representation fee rather than MCEA membership. Thus, neither group has any financial inducement to become members. The forgiveness options, by reducing or waiving dues, are an inducement to unit members in groups 1 and 2 to become MCEA members.

Unit members in group 3 are in arrears concerning their financial obligations to MCEA. To automatically offer them the benefit of the forgiveness options would simply reward them for failing to live up to such obligations. Therefore, the forgiveness options do not routinely apply to unit members in group 3.²

How do the Forgiveness Options Interrelate?

By its terms, Article II, Section 2 c of the bylaws applies year round. The waiver of dues offered during the membership drive is of limited duration. The offer may be made or withdrawn at any time.

² MCEA may offer to settle the debts owed by unit members in group 3 for less than 100 % of the balance owed and may also offer to reduce the cost of dues to unit members in group 3 to make payment of dues more attractive than payment of the representation fee. However, an MCEA offer to forgive any or all of the outstanding financial obligations of a unit member in group 3 is an ordinary business transaction to liquidate outstanding debts owed to the organization. Consequently, terms of settlement offered to unit members in group 3 may vary markedly from the inducements offered to unit members in groups 1 and 2 under the forgiveness options.

During any period in which the waiver offer is in effect, it supersedes Article 2 c of the bylaws. That is, any qualified unit member in group 1 or 2 who avails himself or herself of the offer pays no dues for the current year, instead of paying proportional dues.
